I never said I could change the world
I just said that it stinks
And if answers are what you want from me
Guess I'll have another drink

Cos you've got your head mixed up inside
I don't pretend to know
The antidote, the medicine
To melt away the snow

And I...
Never said, never said
Never said I could change a thing
I only mentioned all the things
That you had always thought
So don't act like it's some war cry
That you've only just been taught.
