can't see where i'm falling from and i don't need to feel this numb all i know is nothing is real just break my fall and make me feel this meaningless rhetoric

it takes me this far, leaves me here for everyone to pick and choose which pieces will fit best for you disassemble everything i thought you were my heart trembles when i hear your voice i can't see where you're coming from and i have nowhere else to run all i know is nothing at all just cut the cables, i'll swallow this

meaningless rhetoric
believe in this small white lie it keeps me quiet, helps me lock away this grating noise i hear whenever you are somewhat near

my heart trembles when i hear your voice i remember everything you never were my heart trembles when i hear your voice

my echoes ride on mirrors and i transmit much clearer forever remembered forever disassembled
