

Saw Doctors "Exilarating Sadness"

Visit "Exilarating Sadness" on MotoLyrics.com

You were sitting in a cafe at a table by the juke-box Making cups of coffee last for years
You never heard the fanfare never saw the sunshine rising and the summer slipped in unnoticed
from beneath your tears
The pounding big bass rhythm shook the room, shook your little heart all the talk that whistled through your ears You were minding your own buisness but you were everybody elses
and the summer slipped in unnoticed
from beneath your tears

All the girls around you were captured by your presence your lucid features admired and revered Deep in your eyes I recognise exhilarating sadness
And the summer slipped in unnoticed
from beneath your tears

Time flew bye
You moved on
The shop street days are long since gone
All of the laughter and all of the tears
I still see your likeness through the years

Visit Saw Doctors page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.