Verse:

It takes two to get together,
It takes time to make it last,
We'll all end up in some ways,
Like a drink in last night's glass,
But we take this chance together,
Let's not think about the end,
Nevermind the strangers,
Cos I'll always.....be your friend,
Until the end. (straight into fill)

Fill:(play like an Irish reel)

We've crossed the seas together,
We've had our ups and downs,
We've gone further than we ever dreamed,
From our county galway town,
If we're up on top tomorrow,
Or if it all justs ends,
Nevermind the strangers,
Cos I'll always be your friend
Until the end.

It hasn't all been easy,
But sure that's the way it goes,
We've been shaken, rocked and rattled,
Taken jabs and body blows,
There's a strength in being together,
Like a steel bar that won't bend,
Nevermind the strangers,
Cos I'll always be your friend
Until the end.

Even now it's hard to think back
When did it all begin,
Was it some night drinking in gay Browne's pub,
Every soul is welcomed in,
On this fine summers evening,
As the blue of night descends,
Nevermind the strangers

Cos I'll always be your friend,
Until the end.

We've seen the other side of life,
And not been too impressed,
It doesn't beat a day at home,
If you put it to the test,
But at least we took the challenge,
We didn't just pretend,
Nevermind the strangers,
Cos I'll always be your friend,
Until the end
