I should try to speak
but all this fighting left me weak
If I could defend but the ink runs from my pen
I'd beg you not to go away
We should be here together
Though we are somewhere near the edge
I'm begging you don't go away
We should be getting better
Though we are somewhere near the edge
And if I could erase I'd leave the past without a trace and with picture-perfect valentine Replace the words disguised as mine
And beg you not to go away
We should be here together
Though we are somewhere near the edge
I'm begging you don't go away
We should be getting better
Though we are somewhere near the edge
Life is not living without you

Love is not loving without you
This is something that I feel the tight squeeze and the cracking cold steel and I can't stop it - my heart must be breaking
I'm begging you don't go away
We should be here together
Though we are somewhere near the edge
I'm begging you don't go away
We should be getting better
Though we are somewhere near the edge
Why are we somewhere near the edge
