now we're getting down early in the afternoon we do a hundred sketchy things i swore i'd never get to do there's a fire in your smile, let me watch for a while can't keep my eyes off your legs with that dress on you wake me up now i need this so bad all the drugs i could fit in my lungs couldn't fuck me up half as hard as the understated one

I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for this waiting all my life for this you make a blunt remark about my size as we walk down sunset boulevard trading starry eyes and the things that you say pierce the hide of L.A. watch you giggle as it spits up bile to block your way and i melt

as your top lip wrinkles with {lips?} so nimble weaks my ghost, queen of my former coast you extend your arm to save me from its hungry mount I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for this

you tend to laugh with childish dignity and you tend to pretend that you didnt always see when i psychically said "you should choose me instead"
my eyes stripped you bare right in front of me but if you leave me, I'll always wait here born {?} put holes in our tongues i wish i could've met you as a younger one

I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for...
I've been waiting all my life for this
waiting all my life for this

(one whole year) [x3]
