you feel there's enough you try because you did get lonely and hearts feel too much and right now you know you're only blue
'cos time ran out on you well -- that's tough and so you try to steal the feelin' back -- when you touch a touch too much just starts you reelin' now you start to reason how you know you do
you keep holdin' on you know it's wrong but you can't let go and here comes tonight
you say the situation's not your style you linger for a while that's what you do
you just don't feel right and you pretend to be sincere but nothing is clear you're no sincere you still don't feel right and you have no intention to be left standing by
