That's her over in the corner
Drinking coke and eating ice
Twisting her hair over her finger
There's a memory inside your eyes
The Cigarette machine she's leaned on Remembers more than most of us
We hide them both under a blanket
When the health department comes
Four more living in an alley
Separated Â...
It took walls to drive her crazy
It took space to drive her in

Swimming pools are nice attraction
So are Vicodin and wine
A week-long ocean-front vacation
Feel like a pirate for a time
Every distant destination, never-ending gasoline
Every man it's a simple caller
Every simple girl's a queen
Giant screens of skies exploding
Something basic and power chords
We got a preacher if you're listening
He'll play his guitar if you're bored
