

Miracle Of 86

"Dance! Dance Revolution!"

When I get there,
I've been hanging around for days.
And when I climb the stairs,
You're the first word that I say.

A-hey hey hey.

And when I get there,
I'ma stumble drunk for days,
And hope you hold your breath
Until you say, "go home."

You're only crazier than me
When you're really really really really angry,

Like you are right now
When you scream and shout
And kick me out and say, "go home."

I don't know where the park begins and 66th street
ends,
At least not this late in the weekend.
Am I moving closer to you?
Would you meet me half way?
You make me want to forget what other people look like,
At least for tonight.
