

Big Joe Duskin

"Where The Rivers End"

Visit "Where The Rivers End" on MotoLyrics.com

I remember living on the western coast of France I was only seventeen when a girl first took my heart and though I've seen the rivers they never looked as good as you

and though I've seen the rivers
they never looked as good as you

sometimes the lights would shine down sometimes the world was black and white
sometimes the lights would shine down
sometimes the world was black and white

and though I've seen the rivers
they never looked as good as you
and though I've seen the rivers all they ever do is remind me of you you know I could have loved you you know I once believed in you

you know I could have loved you
you know I once believed in you

and though I've seen the rivers
they never looked as good as you
and though I've seen the rivers
they never looked as good as you

Visit Big Joe Duskin page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.