You are a child, born into a dead world
Of fairy tales and you are consumed
With a smirk, you lather, the anguish
With a crooked smile, you are consumed

These scars will never heal the wound
Erase your face from my existence
Erase your face from my existence, now

These scars will never heal the wound
It only makes you stronger, it's all inside
It only makes you stronger, it's all inside
It only makes you stronger, it's all inside
It only makes you stronger, it's all inside

Die alone in this world, you have made
In my perfect world, you were never there

Erase erase erase

Erase your face from my existence
Erase your face from my existence
Erase your face from my existence
Erase your face from my existence, now

These scars will never heal the wound
Erase your face from my existence
Erase your face from my existence

It only makes you stronger, it's all inside
And it only makes you stronger, it's all inside
And it only makes you stronger, it's all inside
And it only makes you stronger, it's all inside

Lay your body down
Lay it down
Lay it down
Lay it down
