We watch these days go by
The seasons changed and faded away
And the the things I've learned to love, grow old and die

No reason why, no reason why
No reason why, no reason why
'Cause life's too short to spend alone in misery

Everybody seems to look the same
I feel so alone and now my head is bowed in shame again
So I look to the heart of the devil for answers

This path is like a loaded gun
But what's said is done
You don't have to say a word

I'm so afraid to ask
I've turned my back, forget the past
Find me something true that is inside

Well, I'm so afraid to ask
This solace never seems to last
I turn away as the sunshine fades to black

I spend my nights and days
Wrapped away their all the same
I don't know how much more I can take

'Cause life's too short to spend alone in misery

This path is like a loaded gun
But what's said is done
You don't have to say a word

This path is like a loaded gun
But what's said is done
You don't have to say a word

This path is like a loaded gun
But what's said is done
You don't have to say a word
To say a word, to say a word

I'm so afraid to ask
I've turned my back, forget the past
Find me something true that is inside

I'm so afraid to ask
This solace never seems to last
I turn away if the sunshine fades to black

I'm so afraid to ask
I've turned my back, forget the past
Find me something true that is inside

This path is like a loaded gun
But what's said is done
You don't have to say a word
