You took your time you took what you needed you placed your hands upon my eyes you took what was needed you used to laugh about my pride as you danced with echoes in my mind and i have been holding tight to driftwood on a waiting shore

[Chorus]
so I'll hold you underwater breathe with me if you can slowly fading with the sunlight your face is turning blank

and the school girls dream of olden towns lemon lips and sunset walks but I'll hold you underwater while i can

your words don't come out clear this time as you press your lips close to me dear i won't cry for my sins i won't cry for her i won't cry

[Chorus]

oh don't you wonder how I'm coping with your smoky ways cos i can still remember your face when you walked into the room the smell of your hair and your cheap perfume your skin pressed against my arm and thigh the way you turned and sang into my ear oh my dear you're dying

[Chorus]
