Shame on you
You saw the whole thing comin'
Let me build my house of cards
And then you, you turned so quick
I believe the whole thing came tumbling down
From the breeze off your skirt
You let me know not one of my tears ever came close
To pay dirt
And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
You know better
I could pretend that you were just part of a chain
One of many
But honey, who on this earth could I ever persuade
To believe me?
So, once, again I've got to pour another shot of deliverance
This time of night any old flavor will do.
It don't seem to make any difference.

And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
You know better
And when they say, again they say
Forget her
Keep your wits about you boy
Don't be stupid
She can live without you boy
You know better
You know better
And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
And when they say "There's nothing to love"
You know better
You know better
You know, you know, you know, you know
