

More Than Life

"Curtains Closing"

Never been sure of what life was made of
I don't want to live without knowing an end
And sometimes I wonder,
Have you ever screamed my name in the middle of the night
It becomes an everyday swear,
It's never healing
The sun hasn't shined for years in this life
So we force ourselves sick
To just self destruct digging deeper into the ground, alone.
I closed my eyes close the curtains.
Lock the doors.
Voices I tried to ignore I tried.
I failed. I hated.
I have died and I wonder,
night
