How many times does it take just to figure out, everything changes, we all make mistakes of our own at our own expense

We try to get by and forgive and forget but she tries to deny all the places shes been, so she says

If it's too much to ask just to try then just let me go, cover the tracks and we'll both pretend we didnt know who we were,

This lesson in love had a teacher with no degree, how did i fail if i handed in everything everything you asked...

So you run away from here,
but you cant hide from everything you said.

screaming in silence and running in darkness, breathing in vilonce what happened to happiness, it fades away,

All the nights at the movies, ignoring the big screen What'd you mean when you told me forever, until you found him?

theres a battle inside where all sides are falling what matters is trying and walking away alive, to start again

telling the truth every once in a while,
is going the distance but shorting a mile, you always do...

so you run away from here,
but you cant hide from everything you said.

run away it's all just the same from here you only hear what you think you wanna hear.
