You're in Bluffdale hiding out, reading my emails underground.

Warrantless wiretaps cloaked in a patriot act.

Our tax dollars wasted every day watching people online.

The NSA's got your dossier, even if you've done no crime

Trusting in something you don't understand, living a pre-Katrina Fairyland.

The fourth amendment is obsolescent. You have to use it or you will lose it.

Who watches the watchers? And if they botch it?
Totalitarian. Authoritarian.

Watergate is now legal.

Stellar wind, above the law.

Your Constitution is worked around. Every Google search has been found.

A phone call to grandma today is national security redefined.

The modern Stasi are underway, but we can trust them
this time.

What is the price of security? The fear mongers took my freedom from me.
