TRANSLATION:

Like the flames I lost you to,
Sadness overwhelms me, too
The rain sends shivers down my spine and seeps into my memory
Who was it that loves you so?
Who was it that hates you so?
I gasp in pain- the memories begin to swirl inside my mind

Should I believe in what we did then?
And if I do, leave you behind and feel regret again?
Is this the way to say goodbye, love?
When you and I had promises yet to fulfil?

That kiss you placed upon my heart,
There still remains a lonely mark Can't seem to lose the memories of when we met in the dark
And as I sigh, I can feel you once again
But it fades just as fast as it began

Why are we born into this life?
Why do we die into the night?
It seems the only one who ever knows these things is the rain
Which takes my tears, keeps them oh so far at bay
Until love fades away

Gaze into the flames of blue,
All my memories to view
The rain comes pouring down like stinging needles falling from the sky
Who was it that screamed in fear?
Who was it that dreamed in tears?
I hear the voices but the faces have been washed away for years

fear there's nothing that I can do Soaked by the rain I stand upon the concrete, sobbing now
It seems so long since I last held you
And even longer since the last time that you smiled...

This rain that hides my tears away,
This rain that turns the world to gray Those happy memories of you and I are slashed in the night
Fading so fast, as I watch them, helplessly
All my tears have begun to overflow

This rain that washes pain away,
This rain that blows the flames away
And lets the dreamers dream of songs to sing, releases the life
And takes my tears, keeps them oh so far at bay
Until love fades away,
Until love fades away...
