Every morning when I wake up
I wonder why you're not there
It feels like an empty bed inside
And now it seems every step I take I cry

Now I'm here, Now I'm there
Wondering what will happen here
But I still keep my head up high
But it still doesn't make it right

I've thought a lot
Will not cry
Wondering why
But It still won't be clear

Now I've seen
Where I've been
But you still won't be here

Now there's a hundred broken hearts tonight
Will there ever be something happening this night
It seems you've gone and left me here
Wishin if there was anything left
But you've been gone for a while
With a hundred broken, With a hundred broken hearts

Sitting here all alone
Will you ever be coming home
It's hard to bere (with a groan)
But I won't ever cry
Waiting for you

I've thought a lot
Will not cry
Wondering why
But It still won't be clear

Now I've seen
Where I've been
But you still won't be here

Now there's a hundred broken hearts tonight
Will there ever been something happening this night
It seems you've gone and left me here
Wishin if there was anything left
But you've been gone for a while
With a hundred broken, With a hundred broken hearts

What hurts the most
Was being so close
But that won't bother me
And now you're gone
I'm still not over this...

Now there's a hundred broken hearts tonight
Will there ever been something happening this night
It seems you've gone and left me here
Wishin if there was anything left
But you've been gone for a while
With a hundred broken, With a hundred broken hearts

Now there's a hundred broken hearts tonight
Will there ever been something happening this night
It seems you've gone and left me here
Wishin if there was anything left
But you've been gone for a while
With a hundred broken, With a hundred broken hearts
