I can see you lost your way
It's just easier to hide
But He sees inside Your soul
Where Your past cannot not define

You've been heading down this road
And you don't know who you are
But He knows what's in your thoughts
And He feels what's in your heart

You could run till you can't find home
Sail till you can't see land
There is no place you could go

You could fall till you're out of hope
Chase things that never last
You could never run too far
Love will find you where you are

So you're feeling all alone
But you are never out of sight
There is healing in His arms
There is mercy in His eyes

You could run till you can't find home
Sail till you can't see land
There is no place you could go

You could fall till you're out of hope
Chase things that never last
You could never run too far
Love will find you

No height, no depth could ever separate us
From the power of His great love

You could run till you can't find home
Sail till you can't see land
There is no place you could go

You could run till you can't find home

Sail till you can't see land
There is no place you could go

You could fall till you're out of hope
Chase things that never last
You could never run too far
Love will find you where you are
