I was lost in a dream, I staggered and blinked in Love's silver haze
I could see only you from day into night, and night
Back to day
And then the fog, it lifted up, and everything grew
Clear
And then I knew what must be done, and then the time
Drew near

Now I'm moving up where I belong
And I'm through pretending I'm not strong
Stepping out into the morning light
The future never looked so bright

I was out of my head, cold and removed I'd gaze at the Scene
As I looked down at us I saw two of you with darkness
Between
But now the chains that bound me tight have fallen off
At last
And I can walk, and I can run, and move beyond the past

Now I'm moving up where I belong
And I'm through pretending I'm not strong

Stepping out into the morning light
The future never looked so bright

Spreading out my wings I learn to fly
Soaring on my own across the sky
I never knew how good it felt to be
Just me, just me!

This is where I start, this is where I will begin
Rising from the ash, now I emerge in fire and wind
Flames like feathers grow, blossoming hot out from my Skin
Lifting off from earth a white hot star is born again

Now I'm moving up where I belong

And I'm through pretending I'm not strong
Stepping out into the morning light
The future never looked so bright

Spreading out my wings I learn to fly
Soaring on my own across the sky
I never knew how good it felt to be
Just me, just me!
