

Birddog

"Car Crash"

Visit "Car Crash" on MotoLyrics.com

Looking back only time will tell of
What was wrong, and what was right,
You gotta get out while you're young
You gotta get out while you're young

I said looking back only time will tell of
What was wrong, and what was right,
You gotta get out while you're young
You gotta get out while you're young

I said time is running
Time is running
The clock is ticking
The clock it ticking
My body's moving
My body's moving
Out through the front window

I said time is running
Time is running
The clock is ticking
The clock is ticking
The tides are rising
The tides are rising
They'll take care of this
Yeah they'll take care of this

And the world will stop spinning
And nothing will really matter
And nothing can save you now
Oh yeah this is the end my friend
And all our embitterments
Weren't making us any better
The clouds will open the way

Car crash it came so fast
And the love you make won't last
The metal and the glass and the pavement on the ground
The sirens will lead you out of town
Cause time is everything

Oh yeah you look around
Look at all your friends
They're going to miss you so
Bad

You were hanging by a thread
The line went flat, and you were dead
Yeah you got out while you were young
Yeah you got out while you were young
The headlines came
The funeral set
The bells they rang
And the birds they wept
Yeah you got out while you were young
Yeah you got out while you were young

And the world will stop spinning
And nothing will really matter
And I can't save you now
Oh yeah this is the end my friend
And all our embitterments
Weren't making us any better
The clouds will part the way

Car crash it came so fast
And the love you make won't last
The metal and the glass and the pavement on the
ground
The sirens will lead you out of town
Cause time is everything
Oh yeah you look around
Look at all your friends
They're going to miss you so
Bad

Visit Birddog page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.