I watched it tumble away
And I felt the gravity take
And I know I spilled across the floor
And I watched me tumble at the door

Steam rising
Steam rising
Steam rising

The splinter in my hand is always there to remind me
To show how the past can tear me down
The splinter in my head is always there to rewind me
To show how the past can tear me

I watched the night turn to day
And I had to throw it all away
And I know I spoke a thousand dreams
But I had to hide them all it seems

Steam rising
Steam rising
Steam rising

The splinter in my hand is always there to remind me
To show how the past can tear me down
The splinter in my head is always there to rewind me
To show how the past can tear me

The splinter in my hand is always there to remind me
To show how the past can tear me down

The shadows shining in my heart are sometimes all but blinding
In the dark, they help me see
The shadows in my heart are sometimes all but blinding
In the dark, they help me
