Mailbox at the end of a dirt road
Pioneer sign on the side of a silo
Old dog on a grain truck flat bed
Power lines cut across the sunset
Running from the highway to the house

Ain't nothing but cornfields
Stretching out as far as you can see
Up ahead, behind and in-between

Ain't nothing but cornfields
The turn road where I first tasted whiskey
Is the same place Mary more than kissed me
In the backyard where my folks got married
Is an oak tree where my grandpa's buried
And outside of every window of the house

Ain't nothing but cornfields
Stretching out as far as you can see
Up ahead, behind and in-between

Ain't nothing but a half-ton town
Dusty main street and a flashing light
Anybody who's just passing by

Ain't nothing but cornfields

I used to sit out on the road side
Dreaming and thinking
Watch the headlights fly by
Without even blinking
And stare off at the sunset
And think about leaving
But I never did
No, I never did
Yeah, this is who I am

Ain't nothing but cornfields
Stretching out as far as you can see
Up ahead, behind and in-between

Ain't nothing but a half-ton town
Dusty main street and a flashing light
Anybody who's just passing by

Ain't nothing but cornfields
Ain't nothing but cornfields
