"Last Word"

Look at me and you'll see much I love you Don't worry about your troubles I'll see them through Trust me you'll find that love will always have it's Last
Word
And that means everything to us

Few do remember and some forget their past
At times hidden memories show why they last Reach inside; honor yourself in the name of the Last
Word
It proves that we all do feel the same

Everyone says that they do love you
Nothing to show you that they really do
This heart of mine wants to bless you my child
So you'll rest your pain and find eternal love

Everyone says that they do love you
Nothing to show you that they really do
This heart of mine wants to bless you my child
So you'll rest your pain and find eternal love

Few do remember and some forget their past
Don't you worry about your troubles; love's the seed that lasts
Reach inside; you'll find that love will always have the
Last Word
And that means everything to me
Promises everything so we'll be free

I need to be you
You've got to be me
If we looked through each others eyes, we'd all be free!
