When everything is so ridiculous
When everything is totally out of control
When there's no rule without conditions
I need to know that I can look at you

I won't let you go
In every single day and
Every single night
I need your voice

I want you to know
That every single word that I will never say
You will read it in my eyes

When everyday needs satisfaction
When every night nightmares are close to me
When everything has no reaction
I need to know that I can look at you

I'm looking at you
