I feel so tired and afraid of what is
These things they're in my dreams
And blinding my fears behind the walls that you put up on me
You locked my heart and threw away the key
These tears these fears are eating me
These tears these fears are killing me

I know these things are getting harder
You've always been there by my side
That's why these days are getting colder
I feel like I've died
I need you in my life

Behind the shadows of a world that once was Inflicted by the signs and deepest of thoughts
If it's our destiny then why should I care
This grim reality I fear what's out there
When things fall apart that were never meant to be

There's secrets that you tell
Secrets that you keep
