"The Kill"

The vultures they, chew the bones, our remains (are all exposed)

No-one knows, knows the kill, that took (all of those)

Just one dark night could look inside and wash your dreams away

And in a flash the light turned black it could all end
today

Sliding down, a slow decline, it might just be (inside your mind)

A creeping death, the coldest stare is it life or death you fear

Just one dark night could look inside and wash your
dreams away

Just one dark night could take your life and wash your
dreams away

Just take the chance and don't look back

Just one dark night could look inside and wash your
dreams away

today
