Early morning, the truth is dawning
She's leaving your bed
She goes outside, back to her life
And she's ready to forget
She's ready to forget

And you order tickets for tonight
So glad you've found the one
But you will wait and she won't come
'Cause love's a game and she plays
She plays just for fun

Oh, you're so wrong
You call it love (but she won't care)
And all you've got (and all you were)
Is just a second hand love affair
A second hand love affair

Due to her alibis, you skip the night
Yearning for her sensual kiss
Memories recur, you think of her
And wonder, wonder where she is

She's already in the clubs again
Dancing with virile strangers
Cottons up to risk and danger
But don't believe your heart will change her

Oh, you're so wrong
You call it love (but she won't care)
And all you've got (and all you were)
Is just a second hand love affair
