I've watched the fires burn my words into these good byes
from the ones i love I'm letting go of
the pain and memories
that hold me back
for i will not let
the foundation fold

the pace of a traitor

i will give
until theres nothing left until i have no more
break my body
for the things i believe what good is a man
if he can't think for himself?

the pace of a traitior

i believed in you
until today
the things i believe
are the things that never change

All i have left in me
i will give everything
