

Richie Healy

"Circling Away"

Visit "Circling Away" on MotoLyrics.com

Coffee stained day breaks in ice and glass
Tear stained in corners and the winter will pass
Hungover with whiskey, hangs over a stove
Kicking up the morning as the rain turns to snow.

Circling away in the outer most wings
Watery eyes, reason that I sing.

Waking to the raindrops in the ashes of the night
Drowning in splashes where the rain has turned to white
Slips through a slipway and down on the road
Kicking up the morning the rain has turned to snow.

Circling away in the outer most wings
Watery eyes, reason that I sing.

Switches a switchblade, switched down his heart
Tired of these times, victim to the farce
Switches a switchblade, turning fourteen
She's hanging in lavender from a rosary beam.

Circling away in the outer most wings
Watery eyes, reasons that I sing.

Visit Richie Healy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.