Oh this power in me is so hard to contain,
When I see death and pain
I am about about to set it free,
And make you feel my name
You hear them call it in the streets
They call my name in the streets.

You see them dying everyday
Yet you always turn away
This world does not have to be bleak,
That's why I stand up for the weak

You see them dying everyday
Yet you always turn away
This world does not have to be bleak
That's why I stand up for the weak

YOU, RUN!

This world's so inhumane
Brother kills brother no restrain,
Enough to drive me insane,
I blame these problems on you
Caught up in all of your political games,
That's why they call my name
They call my name in the streets.

You see them dying everyday
Yet you always turn away
This world does not have to be bleak,
That's why I stand up for the weak

You see them dying everyday
Yet you cannot be torn away
This world does not have to be bleak
That's why I stand up for the weak

YOU, RUN!
YOU, RUN!

[Solo]

I cannot stand it when the weak are preyed on
I will not be an idle man, I must stand up and defend

Now, this is my calling
Now, this is my calling
Now, this is my calling
Now, this is my calling

You see them dying everyday
Yet you always turn away
This world does not have to be bleak,
That's why I stand up for the weak

You see them dying everyday
Yet you always turn away
This world does not have to be bleak
That's why I stand up for the weak
