"Beautiful Day In Brooklyn, A"

Poets love to sing of Paris in the Spring
They say it's something that you can't conceive
I don't know a thing of Paris in the Spring
I've never been abroad but I believe

A beautiful day in Brooklyn is more beautiful
Than a beautiful day in any other place

When the sun comes shining through Over Flatbush Avenue
You wake with a smile on your face

The weather man doesn't have to say it's beautiful
When you open your window ev'rything's okay

If a tree that grows in Brooklyn could speak, it would say
"A beautiful day in Brooklyn is a most beautiful day"
