I just sit here contemplating
Each and every day
As I sit here contemplating
Time just slips away

Haven't I stared these four walls
Eternity it seems
Locked here timeless like a statue
Content with present scene

In darkness like a hermit
Hidden from the day
It's time that can release me
But Time passes on it's way

I just sit here contemplating
Each and every day
As I sit here contemplating
Time just slips away

Lost in inner journeys
Searching for ancient truths
Thinking of the future
While the present takes our youth

Introverted etchings
Deep inside my head
Looking for some answers
While no one shares my bed

I just sit here contemplating
Each and every day
As I sit here contemplating
Time just slips away

Away
