In bed your body burns just like a fire.
And your eyes they twitch under lids from side to side.
And my ego can't seem to get a grip
I'll simplify, simplify the terms
I'm leaving until my body lays under leaves and green-green grass
By then my ego might finally get a grip

So I'll let my lover lie and in absence I'll drink tonight
With tired limbs, indecent mind,
and beggar's bones, beggar's bones, beggar's [x2]

I'll let my lover lie

I could patiently seek another chance
Or I could cut you deep with a simple glance
I loathe your hesitance
I loathe your hesitance

I'll let my lover lie and in absence I'll drink tonight
With tired limbs, indecent mind,
and beggar's bones, beggar's bones, beggar's
So lay like a monument to poise and indifference Betrayed by retreating lips to baring teeth, baring teeth, baring
I'll trade my vindictive sigh for quarter of witless spite
'Til I, like my lover, lie with beggar's bones, beggar's bones, beggar's
'Til I let my lover

Lay like you know I swallowed my hungry pride
And let it all go for the sake of a better life [x2]
