Can I miss you when you're gone
You know this heartache's been a long time coming on
I used to hear us in a song
Can I miss you when you're gone
Your body used to cover mine
Your tired love could use a little sunshine
We let our choices live and die
Your body used to cover mine

In the middle of the night
No one hears your cries
All your dreams have washed away
The blue has left your eyes
In the middle of the night
We all go back in time
To unintended consequence
The blue has left your eyes
The blue has left your eyes

In the ocean of debris
Tell me what is left of you and me
Two ships drifting out to sea
You're anchored to my memory
Like a candle in a storm
There's no fire left to keep this story warm
The water's left us cold and worn
We're just two candles in a storm

In the middle of the night
No one hears your cries
All your dreams have washed away
The blue has left your eyes
In the middle of the night
We all go back in time
To unintended consequence
The blue has left your eyes

The colors will fade
Like darkness to grey
There's nothing to say at all
In the blink of an eye

It passes us by
Like a shadow cast on the wall...

In the middle of the night
No one hears your cries
All your dreams have washed away
The blue has left your eyes

In the middle of the night
No one hears your cries
All your dreams have washed away
The blue has left your eyes
In the middle of the night
We all go back in time
To unintended consequence

(The blue has left your eyes) [x2]
