The rain beats hard at my window,
While you so softly do sleep.
And you can't hear the cold wind blow,
You are sleeping so deep.

Outside it's dark, the moon hiding,
By starlight only I see
The hosts of the night-time go riding,
But you are safe here with me.

[Chorus:]

So, while the world out there is sleeping
And everyone wrapped up so tight,
Oh, I am a vigil here keeping
On this stormy night.
I promised I always would love you,
If skies would be grey or be blue.
I whisper this prayer now above you
That there will always be you.

Sometimes we're just like the weather
Changing by day after day.
As long as we'll be together,
Storms will pass away.

I said I would guard and protect you,
Keep you free from all harm,
And if life should ever reject you,
That love would weather each storm.

[Chorus]

Soon, I know you'll be waking,
Ask did I sleep, did I write?
And I'll just say I was making
A song... for a stormy night
