Sunny days, the waves break.
Slave to what they say, on television.
The papers wrote about a man today.
He blocked the sun.
He told the people lies!
He gave them fear, and made them run.
He gave them fear and made them run.
Stories about a revolution.
Stories about a way of life.
Stories about a revolution.
Stories about a way of life has just begun!
We watch the screen.
We watch the shadow rise.
We watch the screen.
We watch the shadow rise.
Anyway the day breaks, confirmed like a handshake.
Promises man-made, broken like the early morning
wakes.
We watch the screen.
We watch the shadow rise!
We watch the sun.
We watch with beer and chips the power of a gun.
