A distant buzz intensifies
Clouds colonize the open sky
Ash and grey, the sun's blocked out
A shudder runs through fertile ground

Swarming, raging, merely taking
Survival of the illest blood
Erode, erase, incinerate
Absorb the good life from abroad

Morality turns into waste
The eight of plagues is human faced
Cutting branches, crushing senses
Leave it smoldering and move along
Feeding from this sweat-soaked soil
Sucking dry valleys of gold
Harvesting the end of all
Death toll of a world grown cold

These jaws of steel
Chew on the hand that heals
Suck out the good life
To feed ego ideals

Bow down, to the swarms of destiny
Cause there is no remedy
For this gluttonous disease
Save us, from the swarms of destiny

These jaws of steel
Chew on the hand that heals
Suck out the good life
To feed ego ideals
Save us, from the swarms of destiny
