"The Last Crusade"

Can't hear or see, the difference between
In any single way, on any given day
Can't bear to see, the difference between
In any single way, does anybody hear our prayers?

We are alive, we are insane
This is the last crusade
Crusade!

The lives we lead, are they ending everything
We know, as everyone turns grey and old
And reality unfolds
This time for real, last of the daydreams
Awoken and enraged, on to the last crusade

We let it slip right through our hands
And let it shatter right between our feet
Are we alive, are we insane, is this the last crusade?
I hope there's nothing more left in our way
Can we overcome this swelling pain
Or do we hide, away and feel ashamed?

Saving the day, outlive the difference
Keep it in our hands, until the last crusade

Rise up today, to make the difference
In every single way, cause nobody answers prayers
