No more crying, no more pain,
in head,
in heart,
nowhere
Dreams becoming reality, no illusions fading away Love that seems to be fulfilled and is and will be,
staying forever and ever right from the start Not to be dependent on hope to survive, just live
No thoughts hiding the real me and confuse my mind

Wanting to understand why, no nonsense words hurting Pain that hurts more than before Almost regretting telling it, but not taking it back anymore
Wishing, the word "if" were never there, heard and learned Tears, whose spring runs deep Fear, that it will never end

I shouldn't have said it

Thought time is the great healer
But suddenly old sores open Start to bleed again Just like this, without warning
The same scene in front of me
The same words in my head
The same pain in my heart
The same question, will it ever stop to hurt?
Will I be ever able to love someone else like this?
