you did everything you could you had to go away from your home i never realized when i was a kid how alone, how alone yeah well back in your neighborhood they knew you when you blew through town behind your back they were putting you down they had

rules for this
rules for that
rule on top of rule
broke your back

once upon a time i was holding your hand a lady off the street came up she said hey mister i need some money you can't give enough i'll never forget the look in your eye as you dug into your pocket to give that look of love gave me a reason to live there are

if you put rule on top of rule you can break someone's back

break the rules

just the other day i was breaking a rule my whole self was ashamed i thought the sky would open and cry thunder and rain
yeah well there are many reasons i don't feel so good i'd forgive if i could

but i got

to break my back

break the rules
