

Seeger Pete

"Sour Cream"

Visit "Sour Cream" on MotoLyrics.com

SOUR CREAM

(D) G D7 / D7 G / C - / G - / D7 G +2

My name is Patrick Spudnut, photographer by trade

I've traveled this world over; some think I got it made

But while I film the world of fashion

I really have a secret passion

I spend all my cash on sour cream

C - / G - / D7 G

While I film the world of fashion

I really have a secret passion

I spend all my cash on sour cream

Sour cream forever, emblazoned on my heart

You know I can't forget you; I told you from the start

But if I ramble now and then

You know I will return again

Because I can't forget you, sour cream

If I ramble now and then

You know I will return again

Because I can't forget you, sour cream

Sour cream, in salad or in soup

With you inside me I can really loop the loop the loop

Civilization will flower

Black, brown, and white can have cow power.

When we all have plenty of sour cream.

Civilization will flower

Black, brown, and white can have cow power.

When we all have plenty of sour cream.

Words and music by Pete Seeger.

Copyright 1975, Cherry Lane Music Co.

This is a true story, except that "Patrick Spudnut" is a pseudonym, because it is libelous for our friend Dan Budnik, who is not a fashion photographer but who is documenting the beauties

and horrors of this world and contributes much of his time to helping good causes everywhere. But he does love sour cream.

@food

filename[SOURCREM

DC

===DOCUMENT BOUNDARY

Visit Seeger Pete page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.