Change the locks on all the doors
To keep me in from the outside world
I like my things the way they seem
An open cage in front of me

She's taking me back
Where everything is beautiful in white and black
And underneath my skin
Where this life begins
Inside

What if time is just a way to choose
Which universe we're falling through?
I see the vein and I feel the beat
I feel your blood race through me

She's taking me back
Where everything is beautiful in white and black
And underneath my skin
Where this life begins

Do you feel it?
Someone's trying to make the world
To make it all stand still for you
Do you hear me
Calling you, calling you?

She's taking me back
Where everything is beautiful in white and black
And underneath my skin

And I'm taking you home
Where everything works out the way it's supposed to go
In between our hands

So close your open mind
And take me back inside
Throw away the keys and lock me in
