"Wake Up"

Did your heart not burn within you
When I first called you awake
And I healed you
And I drew you in my love
I called you and I taught you, I set you apart

And I will come again and love you
For my love is as strong as death
I greatly desire your beauty
And my heart aches within me

I remember you and the kindness of your love for me
When I made you my own
What wrong have you found that you would go far from me
You're breaking my heart

So raise up my love my fair one
And come awake
And come awake
And leave all that hinders behind
And leave all that entangles behind
Your voice is sweet
And your face is lovely
Your voice is sweet

Wake up, wake up, wake up my love
