Verse 1:

A taste, can last me miles
I know you waste your eager smiles
On perfect strangers on the street
It doesn't bother me; it doesn't bother me

Verse 2:

Because I know they'll never see
The things you show only to me
And I and only I reserve the right
To say things like thank you for last night
Ohh oh yea

Verse 3:

We woke up with the morning news
Some girls would kill to wear my shoes
And they can try to fit my size
But these shoes are mine and only I
Can thank you for last night
Ohh oh yea

Bridge:

Oh, and my words always fall short
This is too big to use them for
When I say "thank you"
I mean so much more
Thank you for last night
Ohh oh yea

Verse 3:

We made slow motion love
We had to race to catch back up
And there's no way to say this right
But I just in all politeness want to Thank you, thank you, thank you
Thank you for last night
