Everything you ever did
Everything you ever said
Everything while I forget
Everything it ever meant

Somewhere in a foreign bed
Somewhere in America
You wake a little different
Forget where you have been
Remember where you are

But I can see a sky forming like a wire warming up
America
And you know you find a new day dawning
Every single morning in America

Take a step and move one check forward
Take a step and move one check forward
One check foward
Take a step and move one check forward

Don't look back
Behind you
I find you
In everything
That I do

But then again I've never seen a blue sky forming
Like a wire warming up America
And you know you find a new day dawning
Every single morning in America

One check foward
Take a step and move one check forward
Take a step and move one check forward
Take a step and move one check forward

But then again I've never seen the blue sky forming
Like a wire warming up America
And you know you find a new day dawning
Every single morning in America

But then again I've never seen the blue sky forming
Like a wire warming up America
And you know you find a new day dawning
Every single morning in America

Don't look back
Behind you
I find you
In everything
That I do

Behind you
I find you
In everything
That I do
