

Big Quarters

"Song for Brown Babies"

Visit "Song for Brown Babies" on MotoLyrics.com

[Brandon Allday]

living in a cage breed hate 6 feet 250 would you miss me still hard to break what the pain do make your brain do waiting hating kept seeing thoughts until it came true in 97 his own father chose to end it 99 his mother became dependent (a few years later) 2005 at 16 what it like to be human wonder if god listening he might've known for a few months listened to lennon and johnny cash a few close friends but they all young in 96 started putting cameras and guards in the building
I was there the same year felt more like prison new years new technological advancement but if the babies feel like criminals it could be more damaging starve for what they never provide make me wonder how we ever survive

[Chorus]

my heroes not yours you probably arrested them your schools probably neglected them they spawn thoughts you probably infected them feed us what you feed us you can lay us next to them fbi call it major crimes babies making babies cry
everywhere my people walk stakes are high I wonder what you say to god

[Brandon Allday]

walls leaking blood like whine took a 28 year old father from his daughter's side they heard gunshots before teachers started barricading the doors glass shattered cut sharpened the floor looking like the walls leaking 45 shots bleeding he was quiet bet them hear him now but they heard a round - speaking with bullets make life not long as it seem amplify the sound of death

what type of feelings he hold make him want to kill his own now they sending babies in the helicopter lift coughing up blood prayers saved the seven that lived doctor couldn't really relate to a night like this said nowadays everybody slicing their wrists he don't know how that feel but the prozac bottle filled
starve for what they never provide
make me wonder how we ever survive

[Chorus]

my heroes not yours you probably arrested them
your schools probably neglected them
they spawn thoughts you probably infected them
feed us what you feed us you can lay us next to them
fbi call it major crimes
babies making babies cry
everywhere my people walk stakes are high
I wonder what you say to god

[Brandon Allday]

I saw babies your age where most spend their days orange handguns in the arcade stood out more than usual school let out for awhile flags at half staff and press conferences and north country regional walmart donated 5 thousand for the wake so thats what they made a couple hours that day probably paid for with all that broadcast blank video tape fbi came and went tell me what changed same day legislators came to visit you they cut the funds for a new middle school I don't want to know who you blame bloodshed blood all the same and I don't accept death in vain hotels and restaurants read our thoughts are with you I wish it was all so simple
starve for what they never provide
make me wonder how we ever survive

[Chorus]

my heroes not yours you probably arrested them
your schools probably neglected them
they spawn thoughts you probably infected them
feed us what you feed us you can lay us next to them
fbi call it major crimes
babies making babies cry
everywhere my people walk stakes are high
I wonder what you say to god

