It gets dark and a shiver moves across my skin.
There are stars but the cloudy skies won't let them in.
I'm gonna write few words and I hope they carry all the way.

Back to the start of this girl
When she still had something good to say.

Seventeen
and you know exactly what you need Twenty two
and they still see something great in you.
But no one tells you a word.
But the lonely echo in a heart.
When this be filled up with hurt
and your whole world starts to come apart

They rest in peace, won't ever come back.
All the stories I was told.
I had a dream - it's fading to black
Just like me it's growing old.
So rest in peace there is no come back.
I will never have a hold
Now there is screaming from the pitch black
That this world is not a home

Say goodbye, that's the only word you'll ever need.
When you try it gets so much harder to succeed.
If I had nothing to loose, I would surely lose it in the end
And you know if I could choose I would never do it all again

They Rest In Peace, won't ever come back
All the stories I was told.
I had a dream - it's fading to black
Just like me it's growing old.
So rest in peace there is no come back.
I will never have a hold
Now there is screaming from the pitch black
That this world is not a home

It's pumping through my system, get the poison out of me.

What good is a believer when there's nothing to believe.

So put me in the shuttle, let me spin around the world,
Show me the star

They Rest In Peace, won't ever come back

All the stories I was told.

I had a dream - it's fading to black

Just like me it's growing old.

So rest in peace there is no come back

(it's pumping through my system, get the poison out of
me)

I will never have a hold

(what good is a believer when there's nothing to believe)

Now there is screaming from the pitch black

(so put me in the shuttle let me spend around the world show me the stars)

That this world is not a-- that this world is not a home
