You have hung the earth on nothing
Stretching it over empty space
You have wrapped the waters up in Your clouds
By Your breath You clear the skies

And on and on and on we go
Singing of Your wonderful works

These are but the outskirts of Your glory
This is just a whisper of Your power
Who could understand Your thunder?
The bursts of light declaring out loud
That You are here, You are here

You have set the boundaries
Between light and darkness
You have stirred the oceans by Your power
The heavens shake at Your rebuke

We've hardly scratched the surface
We've barely heard Your greatness
Give us more of You
We scarcely know Your power
We've hardly seen Your glory
Give us more of You!
